This list represents the majority of plants that we have on sale at the moment, about 900 different plants are listed here. The plants on sale change continually as new plants become ready for sale and others are sold-out. As we haven't the time to up-date the list every day it soon becomes rather out-of-date. So if you are unable to see the plant or plants you wanted below please contact us, we grow over 2000 different plants and may well have just what you are looking for, or maybe something even better you didn't know about!

We also have on sale a few house plants & others things in only small quantities.

Plants cannot be sent and must be bought at and collected from the nursery.

We do publish a mail order catalogue in mid-late September and our mail order service operates from then until March. To reserve a printed copy e-mail us giving us your postal address, or check the website from mid September for the illustrated on-line version. If you are planning on visiting the nursery our Directions page may be helpful.

Plants on the list are sorted into broad categories (Alpines, Bulbs, Climbers, Conifers, Ferns, Grasses, Herbs, Perennials and Trees & Shrubs), then by botanical name. Any bedding plants, fruit or veg plants & heathers that we have are not listed as well as anything that there are only one or two of.

The 'HZ' column is the plants estimated USDA Plant Hardiness Rating, the LOWER the number the more FROST hardy the plant is. Avoid plants rated 9 if you live well inland. 8 - 7 and lower are fine for most and the coldest parts of Scotland such as Braemar, are just into zone 6 so select only plants rated at the level for your area or less to avoid too many winter losses. To see a Hardiness Zones Map for the UK Click Here

The Salt Tolerance column is a rating from 0 to 3 symbols (  ) of the plants tolerance of exposure to salt-laden winds.

No symbol is not good for coastal gardens without shelter.

 is generally good but needs some shelter on very exposed coasts.

 is very tough and will thrive in all but the most exposed places.

 is reserved for only the very toughest, rarely burns at all.

The cup (  ) represents a plant that has been awarded the RHS Award of Garden Merit.
